

AXIS - Products in a Transport Environment

AXIS Communications is the largest vendor of network video surveillance cameras in the world. The UK physical security market is currently undergoing a major shift from analogue to IP based video surveillance and AXIS is a major player in driving this shift, offering network video solutions for all markets from small systems to large enterprise installations.

Many authorities and companies have already discovered the benefits of AXIS' unique transportation offering. It brings them crystal clear images, both in real-time and recordings.

It makes it possible for any authorised person to access relevant information from anywhere, at any time. It allows for automatic incident alerts and alarms. And it creates a cost-efficient, flexible and future-proof video surveillance platform.

AXIS is the world leader in IP video, helping its transportation customers to:

- + Create a safer transportation environment
- + Reduce costs for vandalism and graffiti
- + Efficiently monitor cargo and property
- + Reduce incident response times
- + Quickly decide the correct incident response
